

A Few Words From The President

As you see below, we recently visited the micronation of Ironland, located in Western North Carolina. It was a great honor to see this great nation, less than a year old, and meet with it's President, Christopher and his partner and co-founder, Hannah. It is always a joy to travel to other nations and meet up with their august personages. We had the good fortune to visit the Conch Republic last summer, and the year before visited Zaqistan and Slow-jamastan. These visits were unique as many micronations lack territory and thus are difficult to visit. This is made up for by attending MicroCon, the biennial micronational meetup. At these events, micronationalists from all over the world gather, show off their nations and exchange ideas. It is a wonderful event, and we look forward to it each time. The next MicroCon will take place in Montreal, Canada toward the end of June of this year. We are excited to meet up with the amazing range of self-declared nations. We learn something new every time, about what makes a nation. And that's what micronationalism is all about, nation building!

State Visit To

15 April 2025 XLVIII

Two Flags in Ironland!

On Sunday, 13 April 2025 XLVIII, His Excellency, The President and the First Lady traveled to the Sovereign State of Ironland for an impromptu State Visit. Ironland is located in the city of Asheville, North Carolina, centered around a large sculpture of an antique flat iron. Ironland claims a 12 foot circle around the sculpture, which is usually home to a little cardboard robot, the only full-time resident in the nation's territory. Ironland is the fastest growing nation in micronation history, gaining thousands of citizens within days of its inception. Ironland has embassies all around the world and a significant social media presence documenting the founding and growth of the nation. Ironland is helmed by its President, Christopher and his partner and co-founder Hannah, and it was these august personages that met and welcomed The President and First Lady to the nation on a pleasant spring evening. For some while the two First Couples chatted about their respective nations before adjourning to a nearby restaurant for an informal State Dinner. Further discussion took place over a delicious Italian meal, especially pertaining to the upcoming MicroCon micronational meetup, taking place this coming June in Montreal, Canada. After a leisurely repast, The President and First Lady took their leave, bidding adieu to Ironland for the time being, although a return visit to this remarkable nation is very possible!

Molossian Broomball

10 April 2025 XLVIII

It's time again for Molossian Broomball, the famous game with no rules! Though honestly we Molossians aren't a real athletic bunch, when the mood strikes us we take up brooms and head out to play broomball. Molossian Broomball isn't like that played up in the Frozen North, none of that sissy messing about on ice stuff for us Molossians! Here, we have brooms, we have a ball and we have a rock strewn dirt patch called the Alphonse Simms Memorial Cosmodrome and Broomball Field - although this year we played further afield, in a park in nearby Carson City. On this grassy sward we valiantly whacked that poor ball (or balls) back and forth and spent large amounts of time retrieving them from the surroundings. Eventually we tired of this and called it a game. Broomball rules? None actually. If you want to have two teams, three teams, no teams, switch teams (if there are any) mid-game, have goals, have no goals, have sword fights with the brooms - anything goes. But above all the main goal is to have fun!

Ready to Play!

Molossia's Peace Pole

The Peace Pole is a monument that displays the message and prayer May Peace Prevail on Earth on each of its four sides, in eight different languages. There are more than 200,000 Peace Poles in 180 countries all over the world dedicated as monuments to peace. They serve as constant reminders for us to visualize and pray for world peace.

The Peace Pole is a way to bring people together to join in a network of peace consciousness that is emerging all over the world. Every Peace Pole proclaims the prayer May Peace Prevail on Earth in the language of the country and often several other languages as well. The more than 200,000 Peace Poles around the world are on all continents, in every country you can think of. They are in simple places, such as churches and gardens, and extraordinary ones, such as at the Pyramids of El Giza, Egypt or the Magnetic North Pole in Canada. They are promoting healing of conflict in places like Sarajevo and the Allenby Bridge between Israel and Jordan.

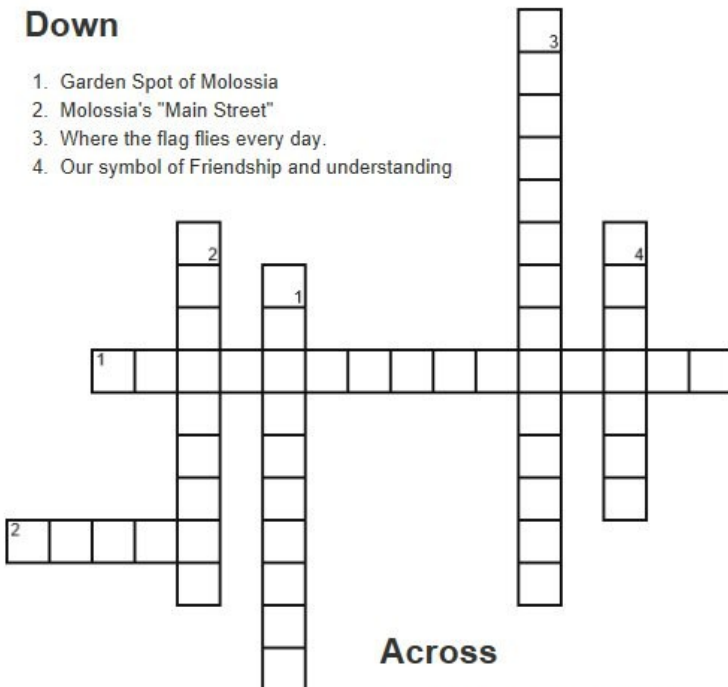

Molossia's Peace Pole stands in Red Square. Its message is in eight languages. English is represented as the native language of Molossia. Spanish is represented as the native language of many residents of the surrounding Northern Nevada area, as well as throughout the western United States. Chinese is represented because it is the native language of 1.2 billion people. Italian and German are represented because of the Italian and German heritage of most Molossians. Cherokee is represented also because there is some Cherokee heritage among most Molossians. Russian is represented because it is the native language or second language of millions of people in Russia and Central Asia. Esperanto is represented because it is the second language of Molossia and because it is a bridge language between all peoples, and in itself represents peace.

Molossia's Friendship Gateway

We do not build walls in Molossia, we do not live in fear, we welcome all. We have instead built a gateway - a hole in the wall, so to speak - to symbolize inclusiveness and openness. Molossia's Friendship Gateway is dedicated to openness, inclusiveness and amity between all peoples!

Our Gateway includes a plaque with all the names of those that contributed to its construction.

The Last Word With The First Lady

Hello all! May is here and spring is moving right along. It feels like this year is rushing by me. I can't believe it's almost summer. Time really does move differently as an adult versus as a kid. Time moves slowly when we are little. That's unfair if you ask me. I appreciate time more now than I ever have. Time with myself, my family, friends and in my home- none of that can be replaced. Spending time with your family can feel typical and even irritating when you're a kid. Once everyone is grown up and has their own lives, you tend to think of things differently. Keeping those special connections going is so important. My friends and I always talk about how we should get together, the conversation seems to always end there. I say, make a calendar invite and set it up for the future. Feeding your soul with time surrounded by your friends and family or even special times with yourself is just as important as any other appointment. Plan it out. Where will you go, or will you stay in? It could even be as simple as a quick bite with a good friend or a planned time to go read outside. What type of connections to you need to repair or create? Sometimes we get into ruts in our life, but it's okay to recognize that and try to change it. I know I will be making more plans in the future. How about you? Let's try it out and see how we feel. One appointment/meet up could be all that we need to bring that little bit of extra joy into our lives.

Thank you all and until next time,

Let's the sun shine on your shoulders and keep a smile on your face.
