

The Mustang

A Few Words From The President

I say it over and over, but it always bears repeating that Molossia is a family nation. That is to say, all of our citizens are also all members of our family. This has probably never been evidenced better than during the third week-end of March, when a great portion of the Molossian family gathered in Florida for the wedding of citizen Bryce Cardoza to the love of his life Jasmine. It was a wonderful ceremony and wonderful event, but it was just as amazing to have so many of our citizen-family members gathered in one spot for this celebration. In addition, of course, as a result of the wedding, we were able to welcome a new citizen to Molossia, Bryce's bride. This brings our population up to 40, a new milestone for our nation! Across the world the populations of developed nations are declining, but we must not be developed because ours is always growing! I am so proud of our family nation - I truly believe that small nations are the future of the world, and that bigger nations tend to lose that family feel. We certainly haven't lost ours here in Molossia!

Molossian Wedding...And Newest Citizen!

25 March 2024 XLVII

Our nation's population has grown again! On 24 March 2024 XLVII Molossian citizen and First Son Bryce Cardoza wed his true love, Jasmine Bailey, in a beautiful ceremony held in St. Petersburg, Florida. Surrounded by family and friends the couple professed their love for each other and were joined together in matrimony by none other than The President himself. As a result of the nuptials Jasmine is automatically conferred Molossian citizenship. This bring our nation's population to a record 40 citizens. Our nation continues to grow! Granted, most of our citizens live as expatriates in the US, but they are still part of our Molossian Family - a family now larger by one more. Welcome to Molossia!

Molossian Broomball

17 March 2024 XLVII

It's time again for Molossian Broomball, the famous game with no rules! Though honestly we Molossians aren't a real athletic bunch, when the mood strikes us we take up brooms and head out to play broomball. Molossian Broomball isn't like that played up in the Frozen North, none of that sissy messing about on ice stuff for us Molossians! Here, we have brooms, we have a ball and we have a rock strewn dirt patch called the Alphonse Simms Memorial Cosmodrome and Broomball Field. On this dusty sward we valiantly whack that poor ball (or balls) back and forth and spend large amounts of time retrieving them from the surrounding sagebrush. Eventually we tire of this and call it a game. Rules? None actually. If you want to have two teams, three teams, no teams, switch teams (if there are any) mid-game, have goals, have no goals, have sword fights with the brooms - anything goes. But above all the main goal is to have fun!

The Last Word With The First Lady

Hello all, April is here and spring is in the air! Here in Molossia we are so ready for warm weather. Warm weather means adventures and tours! That's right, our tour season is right around the corner! We love visiting with fans and friends of our nation and showing off what we call the tiniest but mightiest country! Have you visited us before? Chances are, we may have installed new features that you have not yet seen. We are always looking for ways to enhance our small nation. We do have a few new things to show off this year. You'll have to schedule a visit to find out what they are. Speaking of visiting, the President and First Family all flew to Florida to witness one of our sons marry his beautiful bride, which gives us another new citizen! Maybe in a few years we will get to tell you that another one is on the way! As our family and friends continue to grow, so does the nation in general, maybe not in size, but definitely in heart. When you surround yourself with people and places that you love, every day can be a blessing.

Thank you all and until next time..

Keep a smile on your face this spring, you never know what a little cheer can bring your way!
